Scope and Importance: Nursing is a noble profession serving society from decades. Healthcare Innovations have assisted nursing and haven taken patient care to other levels. Challenges in nursing includes attitude of society towards nursing and limited independence of nursing. Individuals in a need of intensive rehabilitative care, individuals with physical infirmities, individuals with long-term conditions require Personalised Nursing Care.

The global market for healthcare analytics reached $6.2 billion in 2016. This market should reach nearly $7.2 billion in 2017 and $14.9 billion by 2022, at a compound annual growth rate (CAGR) of 15.8%.

The choice of city as the venue for the event has been further validated by the fact that Paris can be seen as the most fascinating city of Europe and perhaps even as one of the most wonderful city’s worldwide. The evening scene, Eiffel tower and the warm atmosphere will make you feel directly at home. A city as Paris is one that everyone should visit and experience. The French health care system is among the better funded in terms of GDP, and average in terms of GPs, hospital beds and nursing professionals
