

L.M. Bennett Books Debuts "The Accidental Tsundere: Dating for Late Bloomers, Loners and Misfits"

First time author releases self-published, "The Accidental Tsundere: Dating for Late Bloomers, Loners and Misfits"

THE ACCIDENTAL TSUNDERE

Dating For
Late Bloomers,
Loners
and Misfits

L.M. Bennett

East Orange, Sep 18, 2018 (Issuewire.com) - L.M. Bennett Books launches with the professional debut of author, L.M. Bennett's, "The Accidental Tsundere: Dating for Late Bloomers, Loners and Misfits". Edited by industry veteran and LGBTQ activist, Jay Blotcher, The Accidental Tsundere features 20 riveting chapters of anecdotal, nonfiction stories of a late-blooming dater. Bennett provides the in-your-face, gut punch and, often, funny, advice to help readers rid themselves of toxic people and habits. With the electronic release date of Sept. 25, 2018, and the physical release date of Nov. 1, 2018, Bennett looks forward taking readers on a ride through her words.

After having bariatric surgery, Bennett's eyes saw the dating experience differently. Combining real-life stories on relatable topics with popular culture references, Bennett felt as a black woman in the LGBTQ community, it was time to let the proverbial cat out of the bag. Touching on topics like dating, sexuality, toxic behaviors, and body image, "The Accidental Tsundere" leaves nothing on the table.

In the making since 2015, all 146 pages of "The Accidental Tsundere" is a project of self-love, dedication, and cringe-worthy narration filled with the voices of the everyday woman of color on the dating scene. After laughing off the idea of writing a book about dating advice, Bennett realized that her experiences were not hers alone and that it was time women of color on the dating scene heard from someone who looks like her. Just like The Accidental Tsundere, during these experiences, one's emotions can run hot and cold, but how one navigates the waters will determine how he or she comes out on the other end.

This is the debut for, both L.M. Bennett Books and L.M. Bennett, the author, but Bennett hopes that it will not be the last. In a time where entrepreneurship among black women is skyrocketing, Bennett is hopeful that she can "increase the narrative of being the face of my own imprint and I hope to create the content I want to see." Bennett continues with her purpose for writing this book, "I want others to know that they are not alone, whether they are the 25-year-old virgin or the LGBTQ person discovering themselves late in the game, they are not alone, and it is alright."

Be sure to follow Bennett's journey through "The Accidental Tsundere" and The Accidental Tsundere playlist on Spotify.

For all inquiries, contact Ashley Strawbridge at ashleymys\(at\)persuaden affect\(dot\)compersuaden affect(dot)com).

L.M. Bennett

L.M. Bennett, an East Orange, N.J. native whose first language is sarcasm is passionate about leaving her imprint and being in control of her narrative. In addition to wanting that for herself, she wants the same for other women of color and those who identify as LGBTQ. Along with creating and publishing her own content, Bennett also plans to make a name for herself as a writer through collaboration. Launching this winter, Midnight and Indigo Magazine, a literary platform dedicated to celebrating short fiction and personal essays focused on the black female experience, will feature a short story by Bennett entitled, "Burn the Witch".

L.M. Bennett Books

L.M. Bennett Books is the publishing company started by writer and author, L.M. Bennett to ensure the voices of the unheard are no longer silenced. L.M. Bennett Books looks forward to being an intricate part in the world of publishing

Media Contact

Persuade & Affect Public Relations & Consulting

ashleymys@persuadenaaffect.com

Source : L.M. Bennett Books

See on IssueWire : <https://www.issuewire.com/lm-bennett-books-debuts-the-accidental-tsundere-dating-for-late-bloomers-loners-and-misfits-1611989812326504>