

Popular Mac & Toz Alehouse closes engages Specialty Bar & Restaurant to sell

Pittsburgh, Oct 5, 2018 (Issuewire.com) - Mac & Toz Alehouse a popular Bridgeville dining destination closed their doors. Dr. Susan McMahon and Chef Randy Tozzie, who also own Bakn started Mac & Toz Alehouse, made the difficult decision to close. "We recently opened up our second Bak'n concept in Wexford from scratch, and the restaurant has taken off leaving me no time to run a different concept." My focus is to keep building the Bak'n Brand, and being at both locations in Carnegie and Wexford; it's been a lot of back and forth".

Restaurant Broker veteran Terri Sokoloff, President of Specialty Bar & Restaurant Brokers (a division of Specialty Group), has been appointed to handle the transaction.

Mac & Toz space was remodeled last spring and is turnkey, with an open kitchen, renovated bar and dining, and private dining room as well. Sokoloff said, "Space is set up ready to go for someone to put their concept in, Bridgeville has been increasingly busy with the nearby development and it is a walkable main street as well with plenty of parking.”
