Company now known as Havio and provides a new online presence

Croydon, Nov 2, 2018 (Issuewire.com) - RHSS LTD, a health and safety consultancy group opened in 2009, has undergone corporate rebranding. Now known as Havio, the company continues to offer the same services it has become known for over the past 10 years. Havio has also launched an all-new website delivering valuable information to potential and current clients.

Havio gives health and safety consultancy in London a new image. The company hopes to change the traditional image of health and safety auditors and expectations from clients. Havio's goal is not to police clients and businesses, but to guide and coach them on ways to improve safety.

"One of the main objectives in us rebranding was to match our corporate identity to the direction we believe the industry needs to head," Jack Rumbol, co-founder and director, said. "We want to be known as dynamic, innovative, health and safety consultants in London focused on solving the problem that can make a difference to our clients."

Havio's decision to rebrand came after a decade of development. Until now, Jack Rumbol and his team had few reasons to focus on branding and image. When the company opened, RHSS was focused on providing clients with the best service possible. After establishing itself as one of the top health and safety consultants in London, the group decided to develop further through rebranding thus giving birth to Havio.

"We are now concentrating on doing what we do best – assisting our clients in raising standards and awareness, working with them to change attitudes and culture," Jack Rumbol explained. "We have a clear vision to be the No. 1 specialist health and safety consultants in London and the South, and we hope that this rebranding exercise will play a small part in helping us achieve this vision."

Now with a memorable name, website, and logo, Havio can continue providing the same great service it has been known for.
