Now consider the whole process...

- Termite Barriers

One of the most effective ways to control your termite is the use of termite barriers. When building a new house, it is recommended to apply a termite barrier to the house.

- Chemical Termite Barriers

Chemical termite barriers, they involve applying a liquid chemical substance to the ground, under concrete floors and/or around the perimeter of your home. This keeps the termites away from their humble abode, keeping their property safe from damage caused by termites.

- Physical Termite Barriers

Using the Physical termite barriers, they consider the durable termite test sheet incorporated around the perimeter of the concrete slab and around the penetration points of your home during the construction period. This prevents termites from sliding through cracks in the concrete foundations of your home.

- Baiting and Monitoring Termites

The baiting involves applying, what is known as Bait Stations or place to an area which is a hot spot for termite activity. A Mr Pest Controller specialist will place these bait stations in or around your property, that will help keep termites out or control termites currently attacking your home.
