

Lyricism in Upcoming Electro-Indie Musician Closer's Album 'Before The World Ends' is Captivating

Searching for some good songs? Then, you must listen to Closer's solo album 'Before The World Ends'. The rhythm and the beat are mesmerizing and heart-catching.

New York, Dec 31, 1969 (Issuewire.com) - One of the most famous Indie artists in the music industry is Closer. He is an Electro-Indie artist who has been writing music and producing music almost around 20 years. He has described his music as introspective, chill, electronic and indie. He is one of the popular singer and songwriter. His all-new album 'Before The World Ends' covers the story and the message before the world comes to an end. The riffs and the beat have the edge here; a notably, reverb-soaked vocal hook creates a strangely atmospheric contrast. The sort of track that could either be uplifting, depending on listener's mood their own mindset. Structurally the set-up of the whole thing adds a series of colors and details that keep the listeners entertained throughout.

The opening riffs in Upcoming Electro-Indie musician Closer's album 'Before The World Ends' surround the listeners perfectly. The connection between the music and the tune, the voices and the soundscape tops it all off luminously. The lyrics are incredibly interesting and well worth hearing more than once or twice. The varied melodic style keeps the things moving and also keeps the listener's interest involved. The use of contrast within the performance adds vibrant variation which is an otherwise smooth and rhythmic piece of music.

Lyrically and rhythmically Closer's solo album 'Before The World Ends' is undoubtedly one of the most addictive and striking songs. The lyrics are simple; the leading voice has a certain easy-going joyfulness about it. Some of the songs of this album are 'This Is How', 'Mirror Image', 'Last Exit' and many other. The change from verses to hook seems quite drastic in hindsight, but bit works really well and the song is quite unique. You can listen to his song simply by visiting Soundcloud.
