

Safely Take Your Pet With You To The US

Brisbane, Dec 10, 2018 (Issuewire.com) - Need to travel foreign but stuck about your pet's caretaker? Need to have the shipping fare of your pet?

Visit, Pet-Express, the ultimate guide for you for your pet's travel issues. Since 1978, it has been trusted by families to safely relocate their pets throughout the USA and all over the world. It is one of the most recognized pet transportation company in the US. There are also various pet laws required to travel your pet through different travel modes. The pets to do have their own values:

- Love animals!

Most of our Pet Transfer Specialists bring their own pets to the office each day, and we understand the superior role that pets play in our families. There are professional pet handlers who handle dogs and cats gently and with a soothing voice.

- Understand relocation:

Pet Relocation Specialists understand that family relocation is a significant event, and can offer a range of services and options that will make your pet's relocation easier for you and your pet. The changing trends across all facets of relocation, including corporate benefit programs, temporary housing, and other factors that will impact your relocation.

- Care about the community:

Support a number of animal organizations including the "Guide Dogs" and "Canine Companions for Independence". Both of these wonderful organizations support the community by breeding, raising and training dogs which are provided to people with disabilities or special needs. Both organizations operate without government backing, and can only survive with public and corporate support.

Modes of travelling for your pets

There are 3 different types of method offered by the pet transportation companies which are as follows:

1. Domestic Travel:

In order to travel domestically, your pet will need the following: Current Rabies Vaccination & Rabies Vaccination Certificate and Domestic Health Certificate / Fit to fly certificate from your Veterinarian.

Domestic travel services include:

Advice and "move coordination", Pickup from home, a friend, relative or boarding kennel at the origin, Travel crate, Delivery to airport and airline check-inflight/s, Comfort Stopovers (if required), Health checks, health certificates and veterinary treatments.

2. International Travel:

All international destinations have strict rules surrounding the entry of pets. In most cases, travel preparations including veterinary conducts or tracking down permits may need to start months before departure. International pet transport service options include; Advice and "move coordination", Veterinary advice and treatments, Veterinary & travel document compliance reviews.

3. Global transport:

With a comprehensive network of specialists all over the world, it can provide experienced handling and management services in most global locations. A trained Pet Relocation Specialist will provide ongoing "project manage" of your important move, and work with airlines and locals at origin & destination.

No need to rent a crate

Do not rent crates, since the cost of return shipment generally exceeds the value of the crate. Most pets are usually more relaxed when travelling in their own familiar crate that does not have any left-over scent from unknown animals that earlier travelled in the crate, so owners should get their own new crates for each pet.

So, some destinations require months of planning and preparations but make it easy by following the steps and obtain it as early as possible!
