Why there is a need for ScienceQ

Developing countries investing less in research and Development, usually, research scholars are spending a lot in publishing. Though open access movement seeks free and open access to academic information, still publishing industry charges a lot for publishing a research work.

A decade ago, We were a young team of researchers from various discipline, survive in the fields with strong financial situation, We owe to offer a platform to next generation to overcome financial barrier in publishing academic work. ScienceQ was started in 2014, since then 700 researchers utilize the opportunity and the need for ScienceQ is still growing..

We strongly believe that every research work deserved to be published. ScienceQ Publish article on free of cost, which makes a platform were every researcher can publish work without worry about their financial situation. ScienceQ is surviving with voluntary donation form authors and donors.
