

Session Vapor officially releases its JUUL Compatible Pod for Cannabis Oils

Los Angeles-based maker of vaporizer hardware and accessories, Session Vapor, announces the launch of the JUUL-compatible for CBD and THC oils

Los Angeles, Dec 21, 2018 (Issuewire.com) - Session Vapor has announced the launch of its innovative vaporizer accessory designed to help people enjoy the immense benefits of CBD oils. The Ceramic Pod is the newest introduction by Session Vapor in line with the brand's goals of promoting the healthy and effective use of CBD and THC oils for all lifestyles, with the JUUL-compatible pod currently available on their website.

There is no doubt that the cannabis industry has witnessed significant growth in recent times with the world beginning to realize its immense benefits. This has led to several states across the globe legalizing the use of cannabis particularly for medical use. However, the somewhat inadequacy in accessories has made it a bit difficult for people to effectively consume CBD and THC oils. This is where Session Vapor has been able to make a huge difference by offering a range of vaporizers and accessories with quality components.

The latest launch of its JUUL-compatible pod for cannabis oils is a further reiteration of the brand's commitment to promoting the healthy use of cannabis oils in a familiar and popular JUUL battery. The product features an ergonomic mouthpiece and a wick-less ceramic coil for the smoothest vapour production possible in a leak-free and discreet form factor, ensuring an excellent flavor and vapor production.
