

VDO360 releases the CUBE system

The CUBE® (Complete Unified Bundle Experience) system designed for simple Zoom Room deployment

Annapolis, Dec 19, 2018 (Issuewire.com) - VDO360 introduces the CUBE, a packaged video conferencing system design to enhance the installation and experience of using Zoom Rooms video conferencing. The CUBE is a complete package of premium products including the VDO360 VPTZH-04 CompassX USB camera, Yamaha Unified Communications' Revolabs FLX UC 500 USB speakerphone, the Intel NUC8i7BEH Computer with Windows 10 Pro and the Samsung Galaxy Tab A 8

Android Tablet. the products, Tablet, and camera mounts, as well as all required cables, are packaged and delivered in a single box (monitors sold separately).

"The CUBE delivers every aspect of a unified communications solution, enabling a streamlined, easy installation," said Mike Fitch, VP of Sales and Marketing at Yamaha Unified Communications. "We are excited to partner with VDO360 to provide superior audio performance with our FLX UC 500 USB speakerphone.

"We're happy to see that VDO360 continues to innovate with the Intel NUC", said John Deatherage, Director of Marketing for Intel. "The NUC8i7BEH is a perfect fit for Zoom Rooms and the CUBE concept eliminates any question of compatibility," he continued. "We're proud to be partners with VDO360 on the CUBE system as they continue their long experience in bringing the NUC platform into the modern workflow."

"The CUBE is a unique package because of the integrated, one box approach, achieving a single SKU" said Michael Baker, Vice President of Sales for VDO360. "Every CUBE system is assembled, and all components pretested before shipment even further enhancing reliability and ease of deployment."

The CUBE system will be shipping beginning Dec 14, 2018. It is available through a large network of dealers and distributors. More information can be found on the company website, www.vdo360.com/CUBE
