London, Jan 30, 2019 (Issuewire.com) - Serene Education has announced the offer of a free 30-day Forex Training Course in line with the company's goal of helping everyone and anyone learn to earn an added income via trading currencies online, regardless of their level of knowledge or expertise. Forex trading has grown in popularity in recent times with millions of people across the globe realizing the immense benefits of being able to trade major international currencies online, from anywhere they are in the world. However, trading Forex and other forms of digital trading profitably require adequate knowledge that can only be acquired through training. Unfortunately, this type of training may cost thousands of pounds, and without knowing whether Forex Trading is a right career path to take, makes this a large amount of initial expenditure with no guarantees. This is where Serene Education has been able to make a difference and fill the gap within the market, to allow individuals the opportunity to "test the waters", with a comprehensive 30 day, free Forex training course.

The recently launched 30-day training course further reiterates the company's dedication and commitment to teaching new investors and traders on how to manage their investments and earn an added income on a monthly basis. The package offered is valued at £2000 if purchased individually on their website, which makes this an incredible opportunity for any person looking for ways to supplement their income right now.

Some of the features of the package include One Month's VIP Membership, Forex Made Ezee Online home study program, a free upgrade to Serene's top trading strategy – FXULTIMATE, Live support and trading sessions with your tutor, and a surprise and benefits package for clients that stay till the end.

Your commitment to obtain full sponsorship of this 30-day Forex course is £150 (or more if you like) to supplement your own trading account. This will enable you to practice your learning in a live environment, and in real time, under the supervision of the company and your mentors, to make real money!

Nikki Blandin De Chalain, Director of Serene Education says, “So many people put learning how to trade the Forex Market on the back bench, not only because of fear of the unknown but also because of the cost implications involved in obtaining the correct knowledge and education to really make it work. It is our mission to help as many as possible, to at least give it a try, without having to spend a penny. They will then be able to make an informed decision as to whether they want to continue as a Forex trader. With the growing uncertainty around Brexit and security of investments and employment, now is the perfect time to give Forex trading a try. We have proposed an offer where you have absolutely nothing to lose and potentially a great deal to gain. We are a close-knit, family orientated company, offering specialized training programs to suit our clients' needs, and passionate about providing quality training, support and customer care to those that are committed to making this work.*”
