

Hip-hop Traverses Various Genre Influences with Elektrik's New Track

The contingent scopes of hip-hop as an independent genre is being redefined in a new light with Maryland new-wave rapper Elektrik's newly released single 'Laidback'.

Chili, Jan 27, 2019 (Issuewire.com) - Music has always been the best form of evolutionary art and hip-hop has considerable contributions in making it into likable entity altogether. Music is about the emotional intelligence of an artist's flair along with relatable analogies of every social, political and economic eccentricity of the world. The spectrum of music is so diverse that each musician comes with their own skills and intuitions to turn his content into exceptional projects. Maryland hip-hop artist Elektrik has been mesmerizing the audience with his ambiguous perceptions of lyrics, beats and the whole musical arrangement with his drop-dead tracks.

He has recently come out with his single 'Laidback', the best example of the easy-going dream of every corporate man. He has defined the laidback approach to life as something that deserves more acceptances in our social hierarchy of living standards. Apart from the lyrical leisure in its arrangement, 'Laidback' drops with a beat of a gentle reminder of the times when we actually need to exercise our relaxed souls. Elektrik has been finessing his skills as a rapper since he was fourteen. He cites some of his most prominent influencers as Kendrick Lamar, Yung Lean, and Travis Scott among others. His sound promotes calmness in a way that will energize you like a respite in the monotony of life.

Some of his tracks like 'Hes Back!', 'Never Change' and BAAM!' show tremendous potential for a flourishing career. He might be just starting out but he knows his game better than anyone else. Elektrik is about the true feeling of mankind that shapes us into the person we want to be. There is a sense of inspiration in his compositions that make the audience realize the need for a breathing space.
