New York, Jan 30, 2019 (Issuewire.com) - On Wednesday, January 30th from 11:00 a.m. – 11:20 a.m., Rahul Siddharth, COO, Verificent Technologies, along with Bicoastal Legal, Dan Klier, Founder, Bicoastal Legal, will be presenting “Why identity verification matters for monitoring remote document reviewers” at LegalWeek NY in Demo 3 area of the New York Hilton Midtown in New York City.

Remotedesk software ensures confidentiality and data security. It is the only automated monitoring solution that continuously secures the identity of remote work-at-home agents and delivers the Clean Desk Environment.

Remotedesk maintains the attorney-client and work-product privilege by only allowing those with database access credentials to review sensitive private data. This is also verified by the AI software that monitors the attorney via webcam, simultaneously, securing the desktop documents that are being reviewed. There is no risk in the chain of custody of documents and potential data breaches are significantly mitigated.

Remotedesk has partnered with Bicoastal Legal over 15 months to remotely monitor document attorneys working on a variety of class action lawsuits.

“Verificient’s Remotedesk provides a great opportunity to expand the workforce for law firms by bringing in teams of highly skilled contract attorneys from other geographic areas who would not otherwise be available for the document review project due to their physical location,” said Dan Klier, founder, Bicoastal Legal Solutions. “In addition to monitoring confidentiality policies for attorneys working remotely, it provides a secondary benefit for cost-conscious document review, a precise audit of the time the attorneys are working. Remotedesk serves as an excellent means to track and monitor hours billed.”

Remotedesk will be at booth #2211 January 28-31, Hilton New York

Also, do not miss the cocktail hour on Wednesday, January 30th, 2019, from 6:00 p.m. – 7:00 p.m., sponsored by Remotedesk.
