

Rugged Mobile – Specialists in Mobiles, Tablets & Computers

Johannesburg, Jan 25, 2019 (Issuewire.com) - Rugged Mobile as a company makes sure their handheld products meet all the requirements of their users. They specialize in providing portable mobiles, tablets, and computers for various uses. As the name suggests they mainly focus upon the durability of their products. The term 'rugged' is very dynamic and it serves a different purpose for different individuals. For some, it means that the rugged product will last for a very-long-period, while for others it means complete protection against dust and water. It also implies that the product is heavy and sturdy.

There are three tests which basically define or judge the ruggedness of a product. The first and the most important is the temperature range. The second is military standards or MIL-STD and the last test is IP certification, which judges the water-resistant capabilities. This dictates how long the device can stay underwater. In other words, its degree of resistance to water.

The water-resistant feature of the products is perhaps the most significant feature, which most people consider as an important capability which makes a difference for an electronic product. All handheld computers by Rugged Mobile hold a minimum of IP65 rating.
