

CNBC'S Closing Bell Contributor Has A New Adventure Ahead

One of LA Business Journal's "Most Influential Wealth Manager in LA in 2018," Takes on New Role

District of Columbia, Feb 2, 2019 (Issuewire.com) - Urban Wealth Management founder, Rene Nourse, who is a contributor for CNBC's Closing Bell, and was named "Most Influential Wealth Manager in 2018" by the LA Business Journal, has been appointed the 10th President of the Association of African American Financial Advisors (AAAA).

"In order for a successful financial organization to sustain its growth and effectiveness, there must be a succession plan and a pipeline of eager and qualified professionals ready to accept its leadership. We are fortunate to have such a professional in Rene" said, LeCount R. Davis, CFP and Founder of AAAA.

Nourse started her career as a financial advisor for firms that focused solely on high net worth clients. After seeing a shift in how people viewed their finances and a surge in individuals seeking financial planning and advice over investment services alone, she answered the call and created Urban Wealth Management, aimed at helping busy professionals and women understand and develop their financial goals.

"I am excited to be at the helm of this proactive organization," says Nourse. "My top goals as president are to create messaging that resonates with all people, highlight and increase the benefits of being a member of AAAA, and grow our membership and mentoring programs."
