Pune, Feb 25, 2019 (Issuewire.com) - Human Microbiome is the collection of all the microorganisms living in association with the human body. These communities consist of a variety of microorganisms including eukaryotes, archaea, bacteria and viruses. Bacteria in an average human body number ten times more than human cells, for a total of about 1000 more genes that are present in the human genome. Because of their small size, however, microorganisms make up only about 1 to 3 per cent of our body mass (that's 2 to 6 pounds of bacteria in a 200-pound adult).
