

Jennifer Juan Announces New Single “A View From The Bridge” To Be Released February 22nd

London, Feb 12, 2019 (Issuewire.com) - Jennifer Juan has confirmed the release of “A View From The Bridge”, her brand new single, available on all digital music streaming platforms and digital music stores, including Apple Music, Spotify, Tidal, iTunes and Amazon worldwide on Friday the 22nd of February 2019.

Discussing the upcoming single, Juan said “Originally, it was part of my upcoming EP, “Subliminals”, but I decided to release it as a single, because I felt it was so different to everything else on the record.”

With shades of alternative icons Lana Del Rey and Father John Misty, “A View From The Bridge” takes a nostalgic look at lost love and solitude, with a haunting but hopeful sound, along with soft and sweet vocals from Juan. The single is deeply personal, detailing the turmoil of love and affection, through Juan's signature poetic lyrics.

2018 saw Juan successfully release her most recent poetry collection, the critically acclaimed “27, With A White Lighter”, along with her début EP “Wildflowers” and most recent single “Winter Girl”, which have amassed tens of thousands of streams and listeners across many digital music platforms.

“I was inspired, in a way, by the Arthur Miller play.” Juan said, talking about the inspiration behind the new single “A View From The Bridge” and what inspired the lyrics. “ The first time I read it, as a child, was during a time when I was experiencing love and heartbreak for the first time, so I have a lot of nostalgia and sadness for the play, and it really inspired this song.”

“A View From The Bridge” will be available from all major digital streaming platforms and digital music stores, including Apple Music, Spotify, Tidal, Amazon, Bandcamp and iTunes from Friday, the 22nd of February 2019.

For further information, and to discover more of Jennifer Juan's work, please visit her website, <http://jenniferjuan.com>.

About Jennifer Juan

Jennifer Juan is a cultural melting pot of an artist. She is a writer, a musician, a producer, a film maker and a podcast host, currently residing in the Kent countryside, but dreaming of the ocean. A tornado of darkness and delicacy, Juan creates engaging and powerful projects, using a variety of mediums and platforms, each dripping with her signature playful, yet powerful style of writing.

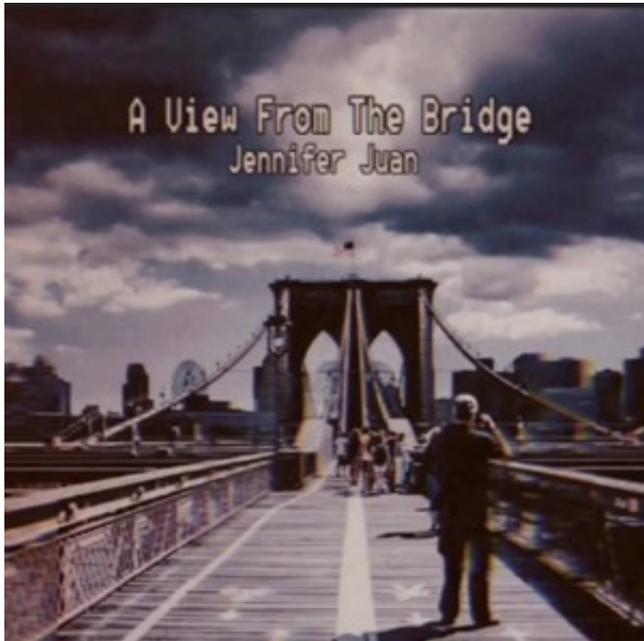

Beginning her journey as an artist as a teenager, Juan graduated from The University of Greenwich in 2013, and began sharing her work on her personal website, as well as through social media, posting written poetry and video projects.

In 2017, Juan began producing a weekly podcast, sharing her poetry, insights into her writing techniques, and released several printed volumes of poetry, including the critically acclaimed “Home Wrecker”. 2017 also saw Juan’s first venture into music, with her releasing her début single “Past Preston”, a haunting instrumental track that was the first step to the immersive cross media project, “Drowning In Us”, an evocative and atmospheric narration of star crossed lovers, told through poetry, short stories, film and music.

Amassing over 29,000 listeners on Spotify alone, in her first year as an independent recording artist, Juan continues her journey as an artist, with her latest release, the immersive, seasonal single “Winter

Girl", which follows her debut EP, "Wildflowers"

Juan has written and released several acclaimed poetry collections, including Home Wrecker and 27, With A White Lighter. Juan also hosts the podcast "Sincerely, Jennifer x", an immersive look at her poetry, writing process, and her life so far that is available on all major podcast providers.

Media Contact

JenniferJuan.Com

jennifer@jenniferjuan.com

Source : JenniferJuan.com

See on IssueWire : <https://www.issuewire.com/jennifer-juan-announces-new-single-a-view-from-the-bridge-to-be-released-february-22nd-1625271096446415>