Omnicore virtual console scales to new heights in next generation enterprise dispatch

Determined to make their mark, the interoperability & dispatch experts launch a virtual dispatch console that is cloud, site or server deployable.

Miami, Feb 26, 2019 (Issuewire.com) - Omnitronics Inc. is proudly launching at IWCE 2019 their next generation omnicore enterprise dispatch management system. Users familiar with the DX-Altus, RediTALK-Flex or altusomni systems by Omnitronics will recognize the easy-to-use and multi-feature capabilities for mission-critical operations and enterprise alike with integration into most wireless networks on the market.

The omnicore is a quantum leap in dispatch management:

Mega Reliable by Design

For those that need peace of mind that they have a failsafe system, omnicore features redundancy at the server level and through the use of a distributed RoIP architecture.

Business Intelligence

A reporting powerhouse, the dispatch solution takes enterprise management to the next level with dashboards for system and performance as well as incident or accident reporting. Operational productivity and safety metrics are available to customers and integrators through an API.

On the Fly

Centralized is what omnicore is all about. From on-the-fly configurations and scalability, to merging contacts databases into one – the centralized architecture means that all information and changes are updated and available instantly in real-time.

Customization

"We offer more than what's in the box. Just ask us" is the Omnitronics motto and they mean it. From custom engineering of industry specific functionalities to exclusive product developments for clients, they can make it happen, with more features included as standard than one may expect.

omniconnect interoperability comes included as standard, connecting people, technologies, protocols and manufacturers.

"Our engineering teams have actually outdone themselves with this one. It's really a quantum leap in both worlds: a mission-critical communications management AND enterprise reporting and analytics system. omnicore is not just a bunch of add-ons that one can buy, but dispatch management all bundled up in one centralized, reliable, easy maintenance package full of features. I am really proud that these guys managed to outshine much larger, well-known dispatch systems by simply listening to what our clients need," states Omnitronics CEO John Florenca.

omnicore will be officially launched at IWCE 2019 in Las Vegas, sneak peeks of the console interface and functionalities will be held at the Omnitronics IWCE 2019 booth # 1367.

There's more, Omnitronis is re-branding and will be showcasing their brand new and blue identity for the first time at IWCE in Las Vegas at Booth 1367.
