He is a member of the American Society of Cataract and Refractive Surgeons, the International Society Refractive Surgery, and the American Academy of Ophthalmology.

Ophthalmology is a branch of medicine and surgery that deals with the anatomy, physiology and diseases of the eyeball and orbit. An ophthalmologist is a specialist in medical and surgical eye disease. Eye surgery, also known as ocular surgery, is surgery performed on the eye or its adnexa by an ophthalmologist. The eye is a fragile organ, and requires extreme care before, during, and after a surgical procedure. An ophthalmologist is responsible for selecting the appropriate surgical procedure for the individual patient and taking the necessary safety precautions.

Dr Swale has been practising ophthalmology for over twenty years and brings his experience and knowledge to all of his patients. He has conducted research and published his findings in prestigious medical journals, which has allowed him to contribute to furthering the field. He approaches each patient with the highest level of care, which enables him to create doctor-patient relationships that last.
