

Rheumatologist Martin Bergman, MD Provides Services for the Greater Philadelphia, Pennsylvania Area

Get to know Rheumatologist Dr. Martin Bergman, who serves the Philadelphia, Pennsylvania area at his private practice and at the Drexel University School of Medicine.

New York, Feb 27, 2019 (IssueWire.com) - Dr Bergman is Clinical Associate Professor of Medicine at the Drexel University School of Medicine, Philadelphia, and Chief of the Division of Rheumatology at Taylor Hospital in Ridley Park, Pennsylvania. He is a full-time clinical rheumatologist in a private practice setting, with over twenty years of clinical experience. In addition to issues affecting the running of a successful clinical practice, Dr Bergman is interested in issues facing practising rheumatologists on a daily basis. These include the public and professional recognition of the unique skills possessed by rheumatologists, the need to establish and use clinical tools for the management of diseases in the private practice setting, and the educational and professional needs of the practising physician.

Drexel University College of Medicine excels and innovates in education, research, and delivery of compassionate care in our culture of diversity, spirited inquiry, collaboration, and opportunity.

Dr Bergman earned his medical degree at the Medical College of Wisconsin. He then attended a residency in internal medicine and a fellowship in rheumatology at the Medical College of Pennsylvania and Hospital. He has been board certified in both internal medicine and rheumatology by the American Board of Internal Medicine and holds a Pennsylvania state medical license through 2020.

Throughout his career, Dr Bergman has played a pivotal role in the development of patient management tools, particularly the RAPID3. This disease measurement tool is now an outcomes measure accepted by the American College of Rheumatology and used worldwide. His related research has been presented at national and international meetings. Dr Bergman is a recognized leader in the field of clinical outcomes and has spoken both nationally and internationally on this and other topics. For his work, he has been nominated to receive the Joseph L Hollander Award for Excellence and Achievement in Rheumatology by the SE PA Arthritis Foundation. Dr Bergman has been President of the Philadelphia Rheumatism Society, one of the oldest rheumatology societies in the US and a Past President of the Delaware County (PA) Medical Society.

A rheumatologist is an internist or paediatrician who received further training in the diagnosis (detection) and treatment of musculoskeletal disease and systemic autoimmune conditions commonly referred to as rheumatic diseases. These diseases can affect the joints, muscles, and bones causing pain, swelling, stiffness, and deformity.

Dr Bergman has been recognized as a Top Doctor and works hard to ensure his patients receive the highest level of care. When he is not seeing patients, he enjoys spending time with friends and family members.
