For safety reasons or to comply with country-specific legislation, there are some restrictions on what you can send through the International courier services.

Some items like oil, ghee, firecrackers, any flammable product, gold and silver ornaments, highly expensive products, soft toys, and other products which are not allowed by Indian customs and customs authority of that specific country.

Each country maintains its own list of prohibited and restricted items. First of all these restrictions are imposed due to the security reasons.

In general, Medicines, cosmetics, perishable foods, animal products (including feathers), wooden objects and plants are either classed restricted or prohibited. Restricted items can still be sent, but may require your receiver to obtain a permit or import license in advance for customs clearance.

Generally, it is delivered in 3-4 working days.
