MOUNTAINS OF THE SEA

GUNTER SWOBODA

Los Angeles, Feb 5, 2019 (Issuewire.com) - Gunter Swoboda is a psychologist, mentor, and motivational speaker. He works with men of all ages, teaching, encouraging, and inspiring them to be the best they can individually, within their relationships, and within their workplace. Swoboda founded the Good Men Great movement and created and wrote the first documentary of a series, Masculinity That Inspires Change, directed by Miranda Spigener-Sapon and is appearing on Amazon Prime. The film made an international premiere at MIPCOM, Cannes in 2018.

'Making Good Men Great' is a project that aims at helping men rethink masculinity. In a curriculum of workshops, mentoring and coaching programs, Swoboda provides a path for men to step into being great partners, fathers, and leaders. Gunter's first book on this series: Making Good Men Great: Surfing the New Wave of Masculinity is currently available on Amazon. This movement is currently on Oprah's Watchlist.

Arianna Huffington's Thrive Global calls Making Good Men Great, "Swoboda not only provides us with solutions to the issues of gender equality but clear steps forward for the benefit of all humanity."

BuzzFeed adds, "Swoboda's upcoming Book is true masculinity that inspires change...it provides a platform for tips and meaningful conversation."

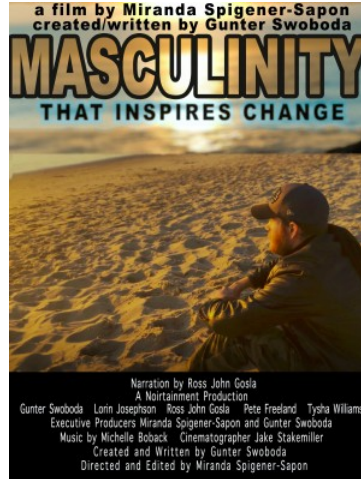

Mountains of the Sea is a fictional complement to Gunter's Making Good Men Great book by using literature to educate. The book follows hero Walter Beaumont as he faces the many moods of an ocean culture that is the center of the Hawaiian World and comes face to face with political intrigue, war and the most enigmatic experience for an English aristocrat-that of riding the giant swells of Hawai'i.

Gunter Swoboda is based in Mona Vale, Australia and is repped by agents Karen Patmas and Paula Allen/National Talent LA, literary manager Will McPherson and Elise Cipriani/M3 Literary Management and for PR/Branding/Speaking and film production Miranda Spigener-Sapon and Lauren Packer at Noirtainment Productions/MS Film PR Literary.

Winterwolf Press aims to promote peace, joy, magic, and positivity in society's creative consciousness and to be a counter voice against the all-too-common dystopian themes that run rampant in today's entertainment. Winterwolf Press focuses on self-help and spiritual themes as well as children's, middle-grade, and young adult genres.
