

35 Year Asian Travel Enthusiast Publishes an Asian Travel Blog with Real Reviews

Life long Asian adventurer, Dave Taylor, a passionate lover of south east Asian travel adventures, today officially launch the "Around Asia Travel Blog", a genuine, non sponsored, free Asian travel blog reviewing popular and remote Asian adventures.

Chiang Mai, Mar 12, 2019 (Issuewire.com) - Life long Asian adventurer, Dave Taylor, a passionate lover of south-east Asian travel adventures, today officially launch the "Around Asia Travel Blog", a genuine, non sponsored, free Asian travel blog reviewing popular and remote Asian adventures.

Launching with 45 detailed photo reviews, you will find exciting information on amazing locations such as Angkor Wat Cambodia, Vung Tau Vietnam, Ayutthaya Thailand, Krung Si Waterfalls Luang Prabang Laos, Subic Bay Philippines, Bintan Island Indonesia, Royal Regalia Museum Brunei and Jurong Bird Park Singapore.

Another 35 reviews are in the process of being written and include exciting adventures such as Mt Fuji Japan, Malacca Malaysia, Chiang Mai Temples, Burmese Death Railway Thailand, Singapore Cultural Sites, Hong Islands Thailand and Koh Chang Waterfalls Thailand.

At the tender age of ten years old (1982), while living in New South Wales, Australia, Dave was fortunate enough to have his parents take their most epic journey and my first overseas trip to North, Central and South America's. You can say Dave was hooked from then on to travel the world when he could find the time and money to do so. With South East Asia being so close to Australia, it made sense for Dave to start travelling there on a monthly basis.

Media Contact

Dave Taylor

support@adventuresasia.com

+66 86 918 8910

Moo 9 Ban Klang

Source : Adventures Asia

See on IssueWire : <https://www.issuewire.com/35-year-asian-travel-enthusiast-publishes-an-asian-travel-blog-with-real-reviews-1627790675957428>