New York City, Mar 4, 2019 (IssueWire.com) - At Hydro, we have amazing products on the table: Raindrop & Snowflake currently, along with the future products of Ice, Tide, Hail, & Mist. Our announcements, however, come in waves!

Here is what's upcoming for your favorite company with the cool Hydro logo!

New Website

A complete overhaul and update to our website are finished and ready for launch! We are committed at Hydro to be your solution for security, finances, and identity as part of the Web 3.0 standard, and our new website update is part of pushing these limits on what Hydro and the blockchain space can achieve. The completely revamped website has been streamlined, with a simplified design and improved functionality.

User Education

One of the highlights of the new design is enriched content. This new area of content is specifically designed to help both developers and consumers alike. With this information, users will be able to make well-informed decisions about their cryptocurrency investing, technology needs, and overall goals.

Team Members All Around the World

Project Hydro consists of a decentralized team that helps bring together everything you love about Hydro. One of the greatest things about the team is that it is truly decentralized. They may be based around the world, in many different time zones, countries, cultures, and ideas, but they have the same goal in mind - to create solutions for identity, security, and finance needed today.

“The Hydro team is spread around the entire globe and each one of us are beyond excited to launch our new cryptocurrency website to our customers, clients, partners, media and potential investors who are looking to understand the deep breadth of Project Hydro’s blockchain products and technology solutions,” said President Robert Kodra, “This website redesign and the dApp store is truly a game changer in the crypto industry and we at Project Hydro are committed to creating the best experience for our customers and website visitors as possible.”
