

Novelist Turned Screenwriter Scott Lee Mosure to Launch New Book

Debut book highlights pivotal moments on the other side of life

Tucson, Mar 3, 2019 (Issuewire.com) - Upcoming novelist turned screenwriter, Scott Lee Mosure will be launching his book "Play Right: Life on the Other Side" at the Tucson Festival of Books (TFOB) on March 2 to 3, 2019. Now on its tenth year, the University of Arizona campus — the main venue of TFOB — will play host to more than 130,000 guests composed of publishing professionals, booksellers, publishers, and book enthusiasts from all ages coming from local and international communities.

The book, according to the publisher, Authors Press, "tells the story of Mosure's struggles in living the life of a creative." The first few scenes open up with Scott and his buddy, Josh, thinking about going back in time and changing key moments of their past. Written in screenplay format, the story unfolds in the neighborhood where Mosure grew up with a unique mix of popular tunes from the 90s in every crucial encounter and turning points of the story.

Scott Lee Mosure will be signing copies of his new book at Author's Press booth 154 from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. during the book festival. Book festival participants will get a chance to learn more about his work and know what motivates him to continuously move forward with his craft.
