

Sci-fi Novel Delves into Genetics and Extraterrestrials

Pleiadians attempt to manufacture humans from intergalactic materials in debut book

Tucson, Mar 4, 2019 (Issuewire.com) - “Stellar Dawn: The Manufacture of the Humans2” by Eric Ramon Crumley is a science fiction thriller depicting extraterrestrial life and the complexity of genetics. His debut book centres on a group of extraterrestrial beings from the planet Pleiadia, who’ve been given the sensitive task of creating the first humans.

In the novel, scientist Pledamo is contracted to manufacture humans from intergalactic materials. The manufactured species are to be delivered to Lil-Brotheria—later known as the planet Earth. But unforeseen danger threatens the crew as they attempt to deliver the experimental prototypes to the planet. A total page-turner, find out how Pledamo and his crew fight their way out of unexpected threats and challenges as they follow through their complicated mission.

Eric Crumley will be having a meet-and-greet session at the Tucson Festival of Books to be held at the University of Arizona Campus this coming March 2-3, 2019. Crumley will be signing copies of his book at the Authors Press' booth between 10:30 am to 5:30 pm.
