

Lovecraftian horror to close Sci-Fi London Film Festival in new indie Brit-Flick

London, Apr 11, 2019 (Issuewire.com) - Below is my story pitch for you. Our latest film The Risen Possession will be closing out the Sci-Fi London Film Festival this May!

‘Lovecraftian horror to close Sci-Fi London Film Festival in new indie Brit-Flick’

The Risen: Possession, the latest release from Lost Eye Entertainment Ltd. will be premiering at the Sci-Fi London Film Festival, an annual international film festival celebrating the best and most exciting sci-fi films and shorts from around the world.

If you like your Lovecraftian shenanigans, creeping dread and cosmic horror with a side order of gunfire and gore, then you’ve come to the right place.

The Risen: Possession follows a group of urban explorers and a private mercenary unit as they unwittingly embark upon an underground military base used for secret, occult experiments in 1955 in a bid to win the Arms Race. What they find is terrifying but what’s on the other side could tear our world apart.

The work of H.P Lovecraft remains a staple of the horror genre and this independently made British sci-fi film reminds us just how chilling and exciting tentacle monsters and cosmic creeping dread can be.

The Risen: Possession also has some heavy hitters involved for a low budget indie film, including Julian

Rhind-Tutt ("Stardust," "Tomb Raider," and 2013's "RUSH"), Sally Phillips (from all the "Bridget Jones Diaries" films) and Adrian Edmondson ("Star Wars: The Last Jedi"). This world premiere is sure to bring a thrilling end to the Sci-Fi London Film Festival.

SCI-FI London will be hosting this World Premiere followed by a Cast/Crew Q&A at Stratford East London Picturehouse on Wednesday 22nd May at 8:45 pm.

“Violent and witty in equal amounts, this is a very British sci-fi horror.”
