

Gabriel and the Apocalypse's tracks have a perfect blend of music

Listen to the popular band Gabriel and the Apocalypse's tracks. There are various sections which keep the listeners entertained right the way through.

Chicago, Dec 31, 1969 (Issuewire.com) - Gabriel and the Apocalypse is an efficient band who is rocking the music industry with their brilliant performance. This is a female-fronted, six-headed monster. The thunderous drums are accompanied by standard bass and guitar. The sound of the keys and synth gives them that industrial sound that has been coming out of the north for quite some time. The members of this band flowed with one another complementing each other's moves like bands that have been on the tour together for 30 years. Gabriel and the Apocalypse have the perfect combination of voice, instrumentation and show all wrapped up in a busted looking package with a black spiked collar holding it all together.

Vocalist Lindy Gabriel said that 'Alpha Bionic' is filled with upbeat synth-infused with the collection of songs. The lyrics in the tracks of this album are mainly based on humanity which may look like in the next 30-50 years. The music in Gabriel and the Apocalypse's track 'Beds Are Burining' of this album 'Alpha Bionic' is a heavy fusion of metal and industrial music. The instrumental and vocal work in the track is so well done that it grabs the attention of the listeners completely.

Gabriel and the Apocalypse's track 'Systematic Chaos' offers a mighty hook and shows brilliant instrumental skill. The track has repeating metal guitar riffs, sampling, synthesizer or sequencer lines, and distorted vocals. The track becomes more and more satisfying as it progresses.
