Get to know Acupuncturist Dr. Lynne Omenson, who serves patients in Mount Laurel, New Jersey.

New York City, May 16, 2019 (Issuewire.com) - Lynne Omenson is an acupuncturist practicing in Mount Laurel, NJ. Dr. Omenson evaluates and treats patients based on the concepts of oriental medicine.

She is an acupuncturist licensed in New Jersey and Pennsylvania. Her special interests are in pain management, mental health and behavioral addictions while incorporating Chinese herbs and medical massage therapy. She has worked with Osteopathic doctors and Chiropractors where she has specialized in conditions that include all severities of muscular pain and structural imbalances. She also has worked in a variety of environments in which spiritual and emotional growth have been the priority. She forms relationships in an open and compassionate way while encouraging honest communication. With this connection she provides insight into a healthy, positive perspective.

She attended Tianjin University of Traditional Chinese Medicine in Tianjin, China in 2005, where she was trained at two Chinese hospitals. She extended her education with the Eastern School of Acupuncture in Montclair, N.J. where she learned a Japanese style of acupuncture.

She continued my education with the study of Chinese Herbal Medicine at Eastern School of Acupuncture. She also holds a certification in massage therapy from the National Holistic Institute in Berkley, California. She is an approved In-network Provider of Horizon Blue Cross Blue Shield of New Jersey.

Acupuncturists complete their evaluations by getting a patient history and looking at and touching the body. Then, they place very fine acupuncture needles into specific points on the body. Stimulating these points and nerves is how Dr. Omenson treats the patients condition. Many of the body's systems respond to acupuncture, and it can treat physical pain as well as emotional stress.
