Get to know Speech-Language Pathologist Ms. Corrina Chang, M.S. CCC/SLP who serves patients in Milpitas, California.

New York City, Jul 17, 2019 (Issuewire.com) - Ms. Chang is a bilingual speech-language pathologist who is currently seeing patients at Kids First Speech and Language Intervention in Milpitas, California. "At Kids First Speech and Language Intervention, we believe in providing a naturalistic and functional approach to therapy through evidence based practice. We provide therapy in the home and/or in the community. Our approach and therapeutic techniques are unique and centered around your child's learning style" as stated on the practice's website.

Ms. Chang was born in Vancouver, Canada and moved to San Jose when she was 17 years old. She earned a Bachelor of Arts degree in psychology from the University of California, Santa Cruz in 2007. Thereafter, she worked as a behavioral therapist primarily for individuals diagnosed with Autism Spectrum Disorders. While working part time, she earned her Master of Science degree in communication sciences & disorders from California State University- East Bay in 2011.

"It wasn't until my third year of college that I was finally diagnosed with Dyslexia and Attention Deficit Hyperactivity Disorder. Receiving the diagnosis changed my life. I had specialized tutors who taught me how to study and learn the way that best suited my learning style. I accepted my learning disabilities and received the help I needed by attending workshops and study groups. In addition to my learning disabilities, I was diagnosis with neurofibromatosis several weeks after I was born. Due to this, I had countless surgeries to remove tumors around my body. My academic struggles, along with my diagnosis of neurofibromatosis shaped who I am as a speech-language pathologist. I know first hand that every child has his or her own learning style and it is my job to teach them in a way that best suits their abilities. It is important to me that each child embraces their unique qualities" as stated by Ms. Chang.

Ms. Chang is a member of the American Speech-Language Hearing Association and the California Speech and Hearing Association. Ms. Chang's primary interests and experience includes working with preschool and school-age children, teenagers, and young adults with language delays/disorders, as well as with individuals with autism, neurological disorders, and developmental delays. Her therapeutic techniques include the social use of language, narratives, executive functioning, and language processing. In addition to English, Ms. Chang speaks Cantonese.

Speech-language pathology is a field of expertise practiced by a clinician known as a speech-language pathologist (SLP) or a speech therapist. SLPs, like Ms. Chang, treat and diagnose speaking disabilities. They help patients with articulation, stuttering, fluency, the rhythm of speech, and more. Additionally, they may treat patients who have difficulty with language and swallowing. Patients see SLPs for a variety of reasons, including relearning language after an accident, overcoming a voice disorder, enhancing social communication skills, as well as improving speaking clarity.
