What Are Invisalign Treatments?

Invisalign treatments are among the most commonly requested procedures for anyone looking to improve the look of their smile. The reason why is generally due to how effectively most Invisalign procedures are in improving the alignment and overall look of your teeth. They are also a quick and affordable way of reversing the effects of tooth shifting, as well as the years of possible damage that may occur to our teeth over time. Keep in mind, that while Invisalign Treatments are amazingly effective, they also require a basic understanding of how they work.

Here Are Some Things To Remember

Your Aligners Are Custom Made: At the initial stage of Invisalign, the size of your mouth is measured at the orthodontic office to ensure it meets all required measurements. Once the measurement of your mouth is confirmed, the Invisalign lab creates several sets of aligners for your mouth. This allows you to change them every two weeks or so. When using your aligners on a regular basis, you will see the eventual shifting and straightening of your teeth over time.

Be Responsible For Your Aligners: You can easily remove your Invisalign aligner to eat, drink, and brush your teeth. You do not need to change your dietary habits unless you keep your aligners in for more than 22 hours a day. Many orthodontists recommend you keep your aligners in for up to 24 hours (or a whole day) for the best possible results. In reality, removing them before meals and/or bedtime is fine as well.

Just A Quick Pro-tip: With your aligners, be sure to use a gentle cleaner when cleaning them to prevent any possible damage. Trust us when we say “you’ll thank us later!”
