

Luigi Zunino, visionary investor and real estate developer

The story of Luigi Zunino and his Group is characterised by a great dynamism, but it is also based on coherent strategic choices that are pursued with an eye to future progress, but always with the aim of developing the group and creating value.

London, Jul 9, 2019 (IssueWire.com) - Luigi Zunino, born in Nizza Monferrato (AL), Italy, on the 24th April 1959 is a real estate investor and developer, founder of Risanamento SpA, a listed Italian property company.

He began his career with the development of commercial real estate areas in the North of Italy to the design and upgrading of urban fabrics in large Italian cities and building many hypermarkets on the behalf of Esselunga and Unes.

Cultivating the ambition of investing in the most prestigious location, his companies acquired many prestigious buildings or areas around the world: in 660 Madison Avenue, in the most exclusive area of Manhattan, buildings located in the heart of Paris, in the most prestigious streets of the city, the so-called Triangle d'Or (sold on 2014 for € 1,2 billion), the Falck Area, an abandoned industrial site of 1,500,000mq, located in Sesto San Giovanni, whose redevelopment project it is awarded to Renzo Piano, defined "the most ambitious urban projects ever seen in Italy since the war" and the Montecity / Rogoredo large real estate asset, subsequently renamed Milano Santa Giulia, an area of 1,200,000mq entrusted to the architect Norman Foster.

Mr Zunino is now President and CEO of Zunino Investissements.

Luigi Zunino is pleased to state that, in a market where speculation prevails, his aim is to make real estate a true industry, closely linked to finance.

On 2nd June 2003, Luigi Zunino received the title of "Cavaliere del Lavoro" (an Italian knighthood recognizing professional excellence); he is one of the youngest entrepreneurs to have been awarded this prestigious title in the hundred-year-old history of the Order.
