

Manda Group Launches Sustainable Luxury Gated Estate on Koh Samui

Prospective residents will be able to choose from a varied selection of elegant three and five-bedroom villas in one of Thailand's lowest density luxury private estate.

Bangkok, Jul 8, 2019 (Issuewire.com) - Mandalay Samui Developments, the real estate developer arm of Manda Group, launches its flagship project, Hin Fah.

Hin Fah, meaning 'Sky Rock', is located near the sleepy, peaceful fishing village of Thong Krut on the southwest coast of Koh Samui. The development is built on more than 150 rai (240,000 square meters) of dazzling land that snakes down the hillside of an undulating 3-kilometre ridge blanketed by swaths of emerald palm trees. The land is being conscientiously developed over time to include private luxury estates, opulent hospitality for visitors, and boutique retail and wellness services that cohesively complement the worry-free lifestyle savoured by Koh Samui's inhabitants.

Mr Tibor Szedlak, Founder/CEO of Manda Group said: "This is a delicate time for Koh Samui as we raise awareness of ecology and resources. We believe we need to start taking the responsibility into our own hands as developers and also as home buyers. It's time we share the task of protecting our island by supporting low-density developments and getting involved on a grass-roots level with those who are inspiring environmental change and sustainable building."

The developers have recruited an international team of experts. From Swiss architects to American designers, the team is committed to making the most of what is arguably the last site of this scale and beauty on Samui's southern coast. Hin Fah aims to be one of Thailand's lowest density signature residential estates, offering peace of mind to prospective buyers seeking a serene locale where they can reap the fruits of a hard-earned legacy. With its stunning sunset views and pristine surroundings, Hin Fah provides far more than just the typical comforts of resort living. It is a destination of a lifetime for those seeking an eco-friendly, sustainable community where one can savour the benefits of a life's work and settle into a villa that can serve as an heirloom for generations to come.

"Hin Fah is our latest ambition and one I'm very excited about. I was already familiar with this sprawling land as most Samui residents are. It's the coveted and majestic south that retains its mystique as an untouched piece of paradise. This land, formerly known as Sanh Kiri Kham, has the potential to be more than just another residential estate. It's an opportunity for us to create something unique in a responsible way." - commented Mr Tibor Szedlak, Founder/CEO of Manda Group

Prospective residents will be able to choose from a varied selection of elegant three and five-bedroom villas. The engaging, environmentally sensitive architecture ensures that the properties blend with the natural surroundings while also offering unique, luxurious living spaces. Each villa has been carefully crafted to make the best of the development's incredible location by welcoming in remarkable sea views and the soothing natural atmosphere to complement beautifully appointed interior decor. Indoor and outdoor spaces are separated by floor-to-ceiling doors that can easily be opened to allow residents to pass through and take advantage of wide balconies that maximize the views. Generous terraces and open living plans allow residents and guests to soak up the pleasant year-round Koh Samui climate.

Hin Fah is equipped with the latest in modern-day comforts and conveniences. Each villa is connected to an underground electricity system powered by six distribution substations and multiple generators, as well as high-speed fibre optic internet capabilities. Clean water is provided to the site by way of several deep wells, a freshwater reservoir, irrigation ponds, and water tanks that hold a total storage capacity of 900m3. Water delivered to each villa passes through oxidation tanks complete with sand, carbon, and resin filters. Top-notch irrigation systems ensure that water is properly and efficiently drained, allowing residents to remain at ease during Thailand's rainiest periods. The roads of Hin Fah have been constructed to meet European standards, allowing for easy access and safe transportation throughout the site.
