

New Security Solutions Provide Businesses and Events with Manned Guard Services

London Security Services launches new security services aimed at keeping businesses and events safe with fully vetted and licensed security guards

London, Jul 8, 2019 (IssueWire.com) - London Security Services, a leading provider of security services throughout Central England and the UK, today announced a portfolio of new security services available to clients in London, Kent, Surrey, and Essex, England. The company's additions include new security and manned guarding service that helps clients increase their level of security while protecting their valuable business and personal assets.

The firm's latest offerings include manned guarding, night security guards, building site security, reception, retail security, car parks security, access control, and door supervision services. These services are ideal for clients in any industry looking to increase security at any type of venue or event.

With crime rates on the rise and the alarming amount of revenue lost each year by UK businesses through theft and damage of property, more and more companies are turning to security companies to help them protect their assets.

"All clients and venues are unique and require a different level of security and support," said Krystal McClean, London Security Company, Marketing Manager. "We are pleased to be able to offer this new package of security services aimed at helping our clients protect their valuable assets, their employees, and their customers."

The security experts at London Security Service work closely with each client to understand their security needs and tailor a package that meets them. In the firm's commitment to offering comprehensive services that best protect their clients' assets, they adhere to rigorous training and screening processes for all manned security guards and assure that all of their employees are up-to-date on all industry regulations and protocols.

In addition to in-house training to adhere to London Security Services' rigorous standards, all of their security guards are licensed by the UK's Security Industry Authority (SIA). The SIA is the UK's official authority and licensing body for the private security industry, and all of London Security Services' guards meet the SIA's licensing standards and are qualified to work as security personnel on any business's premises.

London Security Services has been a staple in the London security scene for over 14 years. Their track record of deterring crime and providing exceptional customer service and their attentiveness, professionalism, and courtesy have made them a choice security provider for corporate offices and events across Central England and the UK.

To learn more about London Security Services, visit <https://www.londonsecurityservices.co.uk/>.

About London Security Services: London Security Services is a London-based security firm committed to delivering to its client's peace of mind through a suite of security services, including manned guards, event security, corporate security and general security services. With over 14 years of experience in the industry, London Security Services is London's premier security provider and is committed to delivering customised securing solutions that meet and exceed the expectations of each of their clients. To learn more about London Security Services' portfolio of services, visit <https://www.londonsecurityservices.co.uk/>

Media Contact

London Security Services

contact@londonsecurityservices.co.uk

Krystal McClean

131-151 Great Titchfield Street

Source : London Security Services

See on IssueWire : <https://www.issuewire.com/new-security-solutions-provide-businesses-and-events-with-manned-guard-services-1638354697655485>