New Milford, Jul 26, 2019 (Issuewire.com) - Shutang Mungwa is from the beautiful city of New Jersey and off late he has etched out an even more beautiful music video called "Each To His Own" which is wreaking havoc in the world of hip hop and rap music. He is a very young singer and track writer and also a record producer at the same time. To be very specific, he is only 26 years old. He has his own production house named Magnetick. LLC. As early as 11 years of age he started showing an understanding of music pertaining to track writing. He was very passionate about listening to tapes released by commercially prominent music artist and would even come up with suggestions about melodies. He would even criticize the instrumental work done by the composer and would come up with poignant suggestions as to how the composer would have dealt with it. Although he never really thought of being a singer or a track writer but as grew older, the passion for music within him took over.

Shutang Mungwa in his new music video "Each To His Own" has displayed his very own musical style, which is a bit complex in nature regarding the treatment of the track. The track has an allegorical form which builds an essence of living a life in this world. The music video is done in such a genuine fashion that It may seem that it is based on true events of his life. This track has an edge over the other contemporary music videos in the sense that the singing, rapping and writing ability are of the highest order. It is an amalgamation quality art and its execution at its very best.

Shutang Mungwa has carved out a niche with his new music video "Each To His Own" in the genre of hip hop and rap and R&B. It has got a detailing for the desire to move forward. The music video moves from a struggle to a flicker of hope. The verses of the track roll into a hook as if the whole track is on a fluid moment. However, the track still manages to make a point and there is a certain degree of free flowing aura courtesy the consistency and the movement of the track. On the whole, the wordings are intriguing and it depicts the subject matter in the most artistic fashion.
