New York City, Dec 31, 1969 (Issuewire.com) - Tanisha Avent, a Brooklyn born singer and songwriter, was passionate about music and arts from an early age. She drew inspiration from Whitney Houston whom she would listen to every morning with her great grand- mother. Although gifted, she was a bit shy and was motivated by her parents to pursue with her quality and make others happy through her singing. She began songwriting at the tender age of 16. From her early days she was able to understand the true feelings and life experiences which has helped her infusing in authenticity and reality in her brand of music, which is her only passion. In her new music album 'Love Yourself' , she has come up with scintillating songs like "Ranny Radio Edit", 'Extended Radio Edit', 'Dranoids Radio edit', 'Love Yourself', "Black Symphony" to name a few.

Tanisha Avent , in her album "Love Yourself" has given out chartbusters like 'Ranny Radio Edit', "Extended Radio Edit", "Dranoids Radio edit", "Love Yourself", "Black Symphony" where the underlining dashes are inflenced from the likes of dance-hall and hip hop all at once. The song expeditiously fills the room. It starts from a dream-like aura into a delicate bounce of a beat.

Tanisha Avent in his songs "Ranny Radio Edit", "Extended Radio Edit", "Dranoids Radio edit", "Love Yourself", "Black Symphony" the song progresses from simple, catchy, melodic development to a more urban rap-flow. The soundscape effectively reflects the dynamic nature reinforcing rhythm and flow of the song to connect in a likeable way.
