

VIVLIO Solutions Adds New Line of Business as Demands for Publishing Grow for their Authors

Vivlio Solutions has expanded its presence in the North by opening a new department and new line of business this Year!

Edmonton, Jul 27, 2019 (Issuewire.com) - Vivlio Solutions has expanded its presence in the North by opening a new department and new line of business to its network of self-published authors and writers. This will enable their valued customers and interested authors to publish their written works and market at the same time without the hassle of finding for a marketing firm for every book launch. It's definitely a one-stop-shop for any authors.

Vivlio Solutions has officially opened its new department in Alberta, Canada with the launching of its new publishing imprint. As a result, long time and repeating authors will be able to publish cost-effectively while having the perks of marketing their work at the same time. The company will be able to promote its new line of business for interested and would-be authors of this imprint and help to struggle those struggling ones to stand out from the competition. The new imprint is called, "Vivlio Hill Publishing".

"We offer services to authors and businesses of all sizes to support their dream, generate tremendous goodwill and get amazing marketing benefits for their book which starts at only $799 for a basic publishing package—already has all the elements needed to get a book of their own published with quality and style, “says President and CEO Lewis Dorze. “Their book when published will stand alongside other traditionally published materials in the market, in a cost-effective manner.”

As for its partners in the industry, such as Ingram, a worldwide distributor, Vivlio Hill Publishing will be able to distribute their books in the global market and receive higher visibility and recognition for these materials in a global scale. The new imprint will use the power of literature and storytelling to create awareness and affect change. The CEO, Dorze is looking for stories that will introduce readers to an important and diverse canon of authors and experiences. The imprint will not only concentrate on children’s literature but also on narrative nonfiction and fiction from emerging and established writers.

“We live in a complicated world where every day we have to proactively re-centre our own experiences by challenging the privileged. With VIVLIO HILL Publishing we’re looking for those undeniably compelling essential voices so often not heard, “said Lewis Dorze, CEO of VIVLIO Hill Publishing. “I can’t think of a more perfect collaborator than Ingram to make our dream of a revolutionary publishing imprint come true.”

VIVLIO Hill Publishing takes its name “Hill” from the initials of Dorze’s business partners, who also aims to lift up marginalized voices in the industry.

About VIVLIO HILL

VIVLIO HILL is a self-publishing brand, production company and marketing firm for independent writers that provide unique and inspiring creative ideas for book marketing and promotion for self-published authors and established writers. Founded by Lewis Dorze and his buddy Alex Wilson in early 2019 and grounded in the dream of getting one author to reach the mark of success by going the extra mile and providing quality and sincere assistance. VIVLIO Hill Publishing believes in the true essence of assistance for authors and in the transformative power of storytelling to impact social change.
