

ADI American Distributors LLC Acquires DCX Business Units

Randolph, Aug 5, 2019 (Issuewire.com) - CEO and founder David Beck of American Distributors LLC announced today the acquisition of DCX (cage code 60118) and NewVac (cage code 63127) divisions from DCX-CHOL Enterprises, Inc. The Chatsworth, CA-based value-added AS9100 manufacturing company specializes in producing high-performance cable assemblies, wiring harnesses and interconnect systems for the defence market. Both companies have been in business for over 30 years supporting the US military and their customers.

“We share a common interest in serving the A&D customer base through the continued expansion of our service offering,” remarked Beck about NewVac. “Through our family of companies, ADI American Distributors LLC, Gemini Electronics, Microwave Components LLC and now NewVac LLC we are able to expand on our value proposition to provide high or low-volume, high-reliability, and high-mix orders of best in class quality products on time, every time to the A&D market.

NewVac, LLC, the new name of the ADI business unit, enhances our ability to leverage our interconnect line card allowing our customers to maintain reliable systems, component inventories and value-added capabilities without seeking multiple vendors.” Beck stated.

New structure

NewVac, LLC is now a wholly-owned business unit of ADI American Distributors LLC (an SBA). The company will continue to operate out of its current location of 9330 De Soto Ave. Chatsworth, CA 91311. McGuire, EVP ADI American Distributors, LLC. “The new combination of ADI and its companies along with the addition of NewVac LLC will bring additional value to customers and will enhance new opportunities for our supply chain partners,” he added. In addition, NewVac, LLC will have access to all of the ADI family of capabilities, including strong financial resources and a well-established logistical infrastructure.
