

Urban Elective Launches in Los Angeles

6-Week Classes Set in Breweries Give Millennials the Chance to Make Friends, Drink Beer, and Learn Something New

Los Angeles, Aug 8, 2019 (Issuewire.com) - Urban Elective has officially launched in Los Angeles and will be commencing its fall quarter of classes on September 9th, 2019 (ends on November 29th). There are two six-week terms within Urban Elective Los Angeles's Fall Quarter from which students can choose to take classes. Each class is two hours long every week and takes place in a local brewery or winery in the greater Los Angeles area.

But the classes you would take with Urban Elective are not the typical classes you would find on any college campus. Urban Elective prides itself on offering classes that are unique, niche, and a little edgy. The 6-week courses range from subjects such as "Erotic Embroidery" to "The Dark History of Los Angeles" to "Intro to Beekeeping" - and anything in between.

Urban Elective's founder, Sarelyn Radecke, saw a need for Urban Elective when she realized how hard it was for adults to make friends with like-minded individuals.

"It's so easy to make friends in college because you're constantly surrounded by people, but that community aspect dissipates as soon as you graduate," Radecke says. "Yes, you can take a class here and there - but research shows that the more often you're exposed to someone - the more likely you are to become friends with them. I wanted to create a platform where people could meet and be exposed to other like-minded individuals, week after week while learning something cool and drinking great beer."

Urban Elective Los Angeles Fall 2019 classes/participating locations in Los Angeles include:

- Indie Brewing Company
 - Intro to Astronomy and Astrophysics
 - No More Postmates: The Art of Micro-Farming
 - The Skeptical Cinephile: Investigating Science in Cinema
 - True American Crime
 - Intro to Tiny Home Building
- Dry River Brewing
 - Intro to the Art of Bonsai
 - Pinterest in Real Life: Metal Jewelry Making 101
- The Stalking Horse
 - The Age of Dinosaurs
 - Financial Badassery 101: How to Finally Get Your Finances in Shape
- The Blending Lab
 - Erotic Embroidery
 - Art History for Cocktail Parties
- Geeky Teas & Games
 - Intro to Dungeons & Dragons
- 6th & La Brea
 - Intro to Sex, Sexuality, and Gender
 - Intro to Interior Design
- Broxton Brewery
 - Intro to Beekeeping
 - How to Be Funny

- Bluebird Brasserie
 - From Sondheim to Hamilton: The History of Musicals
 - How to Be a Weirdo: Urban Legends, The Occult, and Conspiracy Theories
- REV Winery and Brewing Co.
 - Intro to Rhetoric Through Film and Television
- Boomtown Brewery
 - The Dark History of Los Angeles
 - The History of Horror Films

For more details on Urban Elective Los Angeles's Fall 2019 offerings (including information about each course's teachers and syllabus), please visit our website at www.losangeles.urbanelective.com; alternatively, you can check @urbanelectivelosangeles on Instagram or Urban Elective Los Angeles on Facebook.

About Urban Elective

Urban Elective organizes and hosts fun, niche, unique 6-week classes that take place in breweries, wineries, and bars. Urban Elective students get the chance to meet new friends, learn something fun, and drink good beer; Urban Elective's classes are taught by local teachers who are industry experts in their fields. Urban Elective is currently running in both Los Angeles and Seattle but has plans to expand to more cities across the United States in the upcoming years.

Contact: Urban Elective

E-Mail: losangeles@urbanelective.com

Media Contact

Urban Elective Los Angeles

hello@urbanelective.com

Source : Urban Elective

See on IssueWire : <https://www.issuewire.com/urban-elective-launches-in-los-angeles-1641307505291126>