

Wily, brand new artificial intelligence guiding you through the world of cryptocurrencies.

Are you interested in cryptocurrencies but don't know where to start? HASHFOX has found the solution with Wily, an evolutionary artificial intelligence designed to guide you through the complex world of cryptocurrencies.

Geneva, Aug 9, 2019 (Issuewire.com) - HASHFOX was founded in 2019 by a team of serials entrepreneurs based in Canada and Switzerland. It has set itself the mission of making the world of cryptocurrencies more accessible to the world. As one of the founding members says:

“Even though we hear about them more and more, cryptocurrencies are still a concept that is too vague for many people. It is time to change things and let everyone to take part in this revolution.”

How? Thanks to Wily, a fox 3.0 developed by a team of in-house experts whose goal is to support you in discovering each aspect of cryptocurrencies. This AI Bot is a true guide and finds the answers to your questions, facilitates your progress on the site and accompanies you even as you trade.

But HAHSHFOX is also and above all a powerful and transparent Cloud Mining service (for example, it is possible to display live data centres that are located in North America). However, their ambitions are much greater because ultimately, the company intends to offer its users a complete and novel ecosystem allowing them to participate in all aspects of cryptocurrencies: trading, cloud mining, e-commerce (accepting online cryptocurrency payments), mining hardware, etc.
