MyPainChicago (Chicago Anesthesia Pain Specialists) specializes in the precise diagnosis and treatment of neck, back and joint pain, as well as headaches and other uncomfortable conditions.

Dr. Candido also serves as the Chair of the Department of Anesthesiology at Advocate Illinois Masonic Medical Center in Chicago. Advocate Illinois Masonic Medical Center is a unique community teaching hospital and an affiliate of several Chicago area medical schools. Illinois Masonic has a tradition of clinical and academic excellence, which goes back to the early 1900s.

Furthermore, Dr. Candido serves as a Clinical Professor of Anesthesiology and Surgery at the University of Illinois College of Medicine in Chicago. Dr. Candido earned his medical degree from the Northeast University in Tampico, Mexico. He completed his internship in internal medicine and residency in anesthesiology at New York Medical College, followed by an additional residency in anesthesiology at the University of Illinois at Chicago. He also completed his fellowship in pain and regional anesthesia at the University of Illinois at Chicago.

Dr. Candido is board-certified in both anesthesiology and pain medicine by the American Board of Anesthesiology (ABA). As the certifying body for anesthesiologists since 1938, the mission of the ABA is to advance the highest standards of the practice of anesthesiology.

Dr. Candido is a member of the American Academy of Pain Medicine (AAPM). The AAPM is dedicated to advancing and promoting the full spectrum of multidisciplinary pain care, education, advocacy, and research.

Dr. Candido has a highly visible presence in the pain management community, both regionally and nationally. He has published extensively on areas of acute and chronic pain management. He has also written more than 150 original peer-reviewed papers on a variety of topics related to controlling pain. He has also written more than 85 textbook chapters on diverse areas of pain control and has lectured to international audiences on the complex nature of pain and its treatment. Several of his works deal with finding appropriate solutions to dealing with painful conditions in patients who have underlying or iatrogenic addictive diseases.

Anesthesiology, anaesthesiology, anaesthesia or anaesthetics is the medical specialty concerned with the total perioperative care of patients before, during, and after surgery. It encompasses anesthesia, intensive care medicine, critical emergency medicine, and pain medicine. Anesthesiologists have the primary responsibility of monitoring the patient's vital signs during surgery. In addition to basic measurements such as pulse, blood pressure and temperature, anesthesiologists also measure the patient's respiration.

Pain management, pain medicine, pain control or algia, is a branch of medicine employing an interdisciplinary approach for easing the suffering and improving the quality of life of those living with chronic pain. A pain management specialist also called a pain doctor or pain specialist, is a medical doctor (MD) or doctor of osteopathy (DO) who specializes in pain medicine.

In addition to English, Dr. Candido speaks Spanish and Italian. Dr. Candido was born in New Jersey. He lives in the Chicago metropolitan area with his family.
