New York City, Oct 21, 2019 (Issuewire.com) - Dr. Bryan Moradi currently serves Maryland's dental needs through his private practice.

In regards to his education, he graduated with his Doctor of Dental Surgery Degree from the University of Maryland Baltimore College of Dental Surgery. The University of Maryland School of Dentistry is the dental school of the University System of Maryland. In 1840, it was founded as an independent institution and was the birthplace of the Doctor of Dental Surgery degree and is known as the first dental college in the world.

To earn a Doctor of Dental Surgery Degree, students generally need a four-year undergraduate education. Afterwards, they go to dental school for another four years of educational, clinical and dental laboratory training. After graduating with a Doctor of Dental Surgery Degree, dentists have to pass rigorous examinations. In the United States, dentists must pass the National Board Dental Examinations, which is a national written exam. They also have to pass a state exam to be licensed to practice there. With such extensive education and examination requirements, patients can rest assured that any dentist with a Doctor of Dental Surgery Degree is well qualified.

His patients have excellent experiences with him, one stating, “Great dentist! I did six months Invisalign with him, and he redid my front crowns as they were old and I can’t stop smiling. Everyone notices my new smile and compliment me on it. I have recommended a bunch of family and friends to him and they are all happy!”

Another stating, “I went in very sceptical about what to expect since he is very young but let me tell you about this guy. He's very friendly. He's staff love him and he is willing to work with you if you have dental anxiety. Extremely satisfied!”

General dentists provide a wide array of services that are vital to patients’ continued health. These services include: preventive services, including helping to maintain good oral health by stopping disease before it takes hold in the mouth; restorative services, such as receiving timely and appropriate treatment when a problem is identified; as well as cosmetic services, including performing a range of cosmetic procedures, such as teeth whitening, cosmetic bonding, and even porcelain veneers. General dentists also address overall health concerns as oral health is seen as the mirror of general health. In fact, some dental problems may reflect issues in other parts of the body and vice versa.
