Los Angeles, Oct 21, 2019 (IssueWire.com) - Beverly Hills Clinical Psychologist Richard Oelberger, host of the "Richard Listens" show (www.richardlistens.com) on Spotify, Itunes, and Youtube Has Launched A Cerebral And Hilarious Interview with Actor, Writer, Director, And Producer Yuri Rutman.

Rutman discusses his Russian immigrant roots, growing up in Lincolnwood, IL, and how a lifelong passion for film, tv, and martial arts keeps his fire ignited in his creative and entrepreneurial endeavors.

The interview coincides with Rutman's upcoming Co-Star Role on NBC's "Chicago PD"s which airs October 23, 2019 (Season 7, Episode 5), and, his recent success in having his film "Trained" released globally by Shorts.TV, and, Amazon Prime Video.

"Richard has an amazing way of getting people to open up about their personal and professional lives on a podcast that is much different than anything I have ever been interviewed for," states Rutman. "His interview style incorporating a guest's life story interwoven with his professional clinical practice and his peak performance practice with high-level athletes and celebrities was an amazing way for me to be under the microscope", laughs Rutman.

The 50-minute interview also showcased Rutman's twisted humor along with a more serious tone of how mental illness, sexuality, and trust between genders played a key role in him making "Trained", along with his insight on pushing through barriers personally and professionally.

The entire interview can be listened to on Spotify or on Youtube.
