

Bambouri launches 100% Biodegradable Handcrafted Bamboo Bottles

Bambouri has launched the best alternative to plastic bottles yet. A durable, reusable, 100% biodegradable water bottle handcrafted out of bamboo by artisans of Assam, India that is now available for preorder worldwide.

New Delhi, Dec 2, 2019 (IssueWire.com) - Today, Bambouri launched its first-ever bamboo water bottle, which is made of 100% organic bamboo and is fully biodegradable, compostable, and free from all chemicals.

Every day over 1.3 billion single-use plastic bottles are produced and discarded worldwide. Over 91% of the plastic waste never gets recycled, making their way into landfills, waterways, and oceans.

Switching to a reusable water bottle is an easy transition to a more mindful and sustainable lifestyle. That is why, Bambouri Bamboo bottles are designed with a single aim, to provide a nature-friendly, smart alternative to plastic bottles to individuals and businesses, and help reduce the devastating effects that plastic pollution is having on our planet.

“Our bamboo bottles are grown and handcrafted by local communities of Assam, India, who specialize in bamboo cultivation, engineering, and manufacturing of high-end bamboo products for decades. The bamboo used during production is harvested naturally without any harmful fertilizers or pesticides, and we proudly say that our bamboo bottles are sourced responsibly, using natural and organic material,” says Maneek Mohan, founder of Bambouri.

“In addition to that, we oversee all aspects of our manufacturing and supply chain operations in person and work very closely with our artisans and farms in Assam to develop ethical relationships with them,” added Maneek Mohan.

The growing list of bans on single-use plastic around the world is a significant move towards more conscious and environmentally-friendly global consumerism. Bambouri is planning to introduce the Bambouri bamboo bottles globally, serving customers across all geographies and wishes to use Bambouri as a platform to promote the talent, hard work, and dedication of the Assamese artisans worldwide.

The bottle will start shipping worldwide from January 2020.
