Brisbane, Dec 2, 2019 (Issuewire.com) - Brisbane-based women's fashion boutique Blue Bungalow has officially launched same-day delivery. This online shopping option is ramping up the fashion wars with traditional brick and mortar retail shops. Competing for prime car parks and battling the crowds in shopping centres may soon be a thing of the past.

According to a recent Australia Post survey, fashion continues to be one of the main online categories consumers are spending their money on, accounting for more than 27% of online purchases. From this same study, consumers are expecting faster and more convenient shipping options for their online purchases. Next day deliveries increased by 31.7% since last year.

Blue Bungalow's same-day delivery has already been rolled out across the Brisbane, Ipswich, Gold Coast and Sunshine Coast regions, but the new offering now extends this service to Sydney and Melbourne customers. With same-day delivery, you can conveniently place your online order in the morning and receive it delivered to your door by nightfall. This is like liquid nitrogen ice-cream for fashionistas by taking the convenience of online shopping to a near-instant level.

Think back to the times you've peeled open your wardrobe doors to get ready for a date night out or special event, only to realise you have nothing to wear. It's happened to all of us far too many times. With same-day delivery, you can place your order by 9:30 am that morning and have a new outfit delivered to your office or home by 6 pm that same day. Let's take a moment to thank technology and the delivery truck drivers who make this possible.

Imagine heading to work in the morning and hearing you have a special event that evening (impromptu date night anyone?) and need a change of clothes. Or you are on holiday at Noosa or Coolangatta and you're in need of a new beach towel, kaftan or summer dress to wear out that evening. There are some times in life when battling peak hour traffic and trying to find a car park just isn't worth your time or energy. You can simply order an outfit online and have it delivered to your location that afternoon. The added bonus here is that it's cheaper than express postage.

You may have seen a same day delivery option being offered by office stationary retailers, bottle shops and younger women's fashion websites, but it's a first in the local area for women whose clothing style differs ever so slightly to that of their teenage daughter's.
