Newark, Dec 31, 1969 (Issuewire.com) - Late 1990 have seen a new form of music call Reggaeton which came into existence by the mix influence of Caribbean, American hip hop, Latin American music. Eventually with time Reggaeton has become a very popular form of music as the language used here is prominently Spanish-Caribbean. Though it shows its domination in countries like Panama, Dominican Republic, Cuba, Puerto Rico, Venezuela, and Colombia but it can be speculated that with time it will predominantly reach out to the rest of the world. The genre has already managed to gain a successive amount of popularity across Latin America. The Jamaican dancehall producers are known as the initiator of this form of music- record shows the 'dembow riddim' is the first song that came out of this genre. Kick drum, drum, palito, snare drum, are the instruments generally needs to create a Reggaeton track. Many artists have emerged over this short period to showcase this skillful expertise of creating Reggaeton track, of such one of the most notable is Latina artist Axell Da Favory who is better known by his professional name Luis and who already came into the spotlight with one of his new enchanting track 'Bajalo'. This song is available on YouTube and day-by-day it's getting more views and captivating more number of audiences.

With fresh and exhilarating lyrical flow and energetic and electrifying beats 'Bajalo' keeps the audiences to stay at their feet. This track leaves an enchanting and soothing impact on its viewers in terms of music and the overall content. Luis belongs from Santo Domingo, the capital of the Dominican Republic, and he runs his artistic ventures under the banner of the production house called Ramon Marinez. His other track 'Bye Bye' also makes the audience charged up with its astonishing flow and outstanding beats.

Luis takes inspiration from real-life scenarios for making good content for his tracks; all of his tracks are the result of his prolific observational skills and his artistic abilities to incorporate those things in his songs. The way he is enhancing his career it is evident he will be able to create a mark in the world of Reggaeton soon. To know more about the artist, follow him on Facebook and Instagram.
