New York City, Jan 12, 2020 (IssueWire.com) - Licensed to practice medicine in South Carolina and Virginia, Dr. Sandoz is a board-certified neurologist who practices at Conway Medical Center (CMC) in Conway, South Carolina. He is a part of the CMC Neurology team.

Conway Medical Center is a trusted leader in healthcare and has served the medical needs of Horry County and surrounding communities for nearly a century. Its medical staff is comprised of approximately 200 physicians, representing 30 specialties. CMC Neurology consists of a team of board-certified experts who are committed to providing the highest quality of patient care in a comfortable healthcare atmosphere. As specialists in neurology, they diagnose and treat neurological disorders including diseases of the brain, spinal cord, nerves, and muscles.

After earning his medical degree from the Catholic University of Cordoba in Argentina, Dr. Sandoz relocated to the United States. There, he completed his internship at Mount Sinai Medical Center, followed by his residency at the Medical College of Virginia.

Following his training, he earned board certification in neurology by the American Board of Psychiatry and Neurology, a not-for-profit corporation dedicated to promoting high-quality patient care for the public through the initial and continuing certification of psychiatrists and neurologists. He also earned board certification in ophthalmology by the American Board of Ophthalmology, an independent, non-profit organization responsible for certifying ophthalmologists in the United States of America.

Neurology is a branch of medicine dealing with disorders of the nervous system. Neurologists are licensed medical specialists who diagnose and treat disorders that affect the brain, spinal cord, nerves, and muscles of patients. They examine a patient's mental and physical status, conduct medical tests and scans, and evaluate the results to diagnose and treat the patient.
