She completed an oral and maxillofacial internship in 2008 and specialty training in oral and maxillofacial surgery in 2012, both at Woodhull Hospital in Brooklyn. Her experience includes five years of hospital-based surgical and general anesthesia training, serving as chief resident in her fifth year of oral and maxillofacial training.

Alongside maintaining hospital privileges to offer patients the flexibility to work directly with her when extended oral and maxillofacial surgeries are required, Dr. Mahjoubi actively pursues continuing education courses to stay current with the most advanced oral surgical techniques. She is board-certified by the American Board of Oral and Maxillofacial Surgery, as well as certified in Basic Life Support and Advanced Cardiac Life Support. Dentistry, also known as Dental and Oral Medicine, is a branch of medicine that consists of the study, diagnosis, prevention, and treatment of diseases, disorders, and conditions of the oral cavity. Oral and maxillofacial surgeons perform operations and procedures on the tissues of the mouth and the maxillofacial region of the head to treat diseases, injuries, or defects.

When Dr. Mahjoubi is not at her oral and maxillofacial surgery practice, she enjoys spinning at the gym, traveling, and spending time with her adorable labradoodle, Bella.
