Cowork Columbia will have a grand opening celebration on January 15 in downtown Columbia, TN, and all are invited to attend free of charge.

The celebration will begin at 4 PM CST with a ribbon-cutting ceremony from the Maury County Chamber & Economic Alliance, followed by an open house from 5 PM to 8 PM CST. This event is an opportunity to get a tour of the newly renovated facility at 19 and 20 Public Square, as well as enjoy light refreshments and a celebration of the newest business on the square.

Starting the same day, January 15, Cowork Columbia will open to the public with a curated retail space, professional working environment, and private conference room all designed for entrepreneurs.

The coworking space will offer flexible membership options, including day passes and monthly membership, with public availability Monday–Friday 9–5 and 24/7 access for full-time members.

In addition to shared workspaces with high-speed WiFi and Muletown Coffee, Cowork Columbia features a private conference room that can be reserved by the hour for meetings or presentations with up to 15 people in the room.

Cowork Columbia's mission statement is "To help Columbia's entrepreneurs build thriving businesses without sacrificing family life."

John Meese, Cowork Columbia's owner, shared this statement:

"Entrepreneurship is a challenging, lonely path and it breaks my heart to see local business owners struggling, or closing down. Often, even good business hurts good families and we want to see that cycle change.

Small businesses are the lifeblood of our local economy, and we are committed to serving Columbia's entrepreneurs in every way we can.

This is my third business, but my other two are digital-first companies so we're excited to open a brick-and-mortar enterprise in the town where we live, work, and love."
