

Community Organizer Files to Run For District 3 Supervisor

Danny Sauter, a renter and non-profit director, has filed to run for District 3 Supervisor in San Francisco's 2020 election.

San Francisco, Feb 23, 2020 (Issuewire.com) - Danny Sauter has filed to run for District 3 Supervisor in San Francisco's November 2020 election.

"Residents of District 3 are frustrated with the state of our city. If our current leadership can't even get basic services like street cleaning and safety done, how can we expect a bold vision and action to tackle our urgent challenges of homelessness and housing?" Sauter said.

Sauter highlighted that in the last 10 years, just 132 net new units of affordable housing were built in his district of San Francisco. He also noted that a recent survey showed 71% of residents thought transit had not improved in the last few years in the neighborhood.

In addition to being the President of his neighborhood association, Sauter is the Executive Director of a non-profit network of neighborhood centers. He is a renter who lives in North Beach with his wife.

Sauter noted, "I filed to run for District 3 Supervisor because I believe we can do better. Better for small business owners who struggle to open their doors in our neighborhoods, better for families who deserve safe parks and streets, and better for the next generation of artists and immigrants who want to chase their own San Francisco dream."
